The Global Ecology of the Wood Industry 's Contribution to the SDGs: GGSC Roadmap

The ITTO project that GGSC is undertaking

Renovating the Global Timber Index (GTI) Platform for Empowering the Legal and Sustainable Timber Supply Chains

The Monthly GTI Report is based on the survey of the operational conditions of timber sector enterprises in ten pilot countries, reflecting the trends in timber market sentiment in these countries.

The ITTO projects that GGSC is undertaking

Upgrading the Platform of Blockchain-based Timber Traceability System and Conducting Application Tests in Practical Operation Scenarios of Legal and Sustainable Timber Traceability

This activity aims to improve the security of the Blockchain-based Timber Traceability System (BTTS), update the platform, and involve more stakeholders in testing it in real business situations. It addresses technical, safety, and cost issues to boost efficiency in timber supply chains, cut transaction costs, and advance the digital and smart development of the global timber industry.

The ITTO project that GGSC Undertook

Global Legal and Sustainable Timber Forum

Aims to strengthen the connections, cooperation, and communication among domestic and international timber producers, buyers, processors, and market participants, promote sustainable forest management, establish a legal and sustainable supply chain for forest products, promote the legal and sustainable use and trade of timber and wood products in a stable, transparent, and predictable business environment, and drive sustainable development and climate change mitigation.

Four Specialized Sub-forums

01

Timber Legality and Sustainability

Discussions will focus on responding to emerging timber trade requirements, including tropical timber producer responses to emerging timber trade requirements (e.g. EUDR), and national forest certification schemes to support legal and sustainable supply chains.

02

Sustainable Timber Resources, Markets and Trade

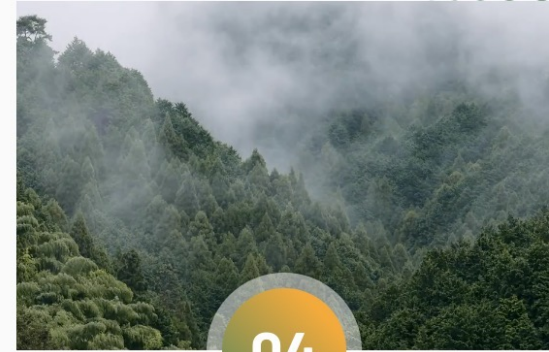

Discussions will focus on the sustainable development of global timber resources and the global legal and sustainable timber trade. It will focus on industry hotspots and discuss the paths of development, gather leading experts to share their insights, and build a platform for exchanges and cooperation.

03

Advanced Technology and Machinery for Timber Processing

Discussions will focus on the latest technologies and products in the timber industry, sharing best practices in advanced technologies and equipment to promote legal and sustainable timber trade, probe common challenges and obstacles in collaborative innovation...

04

Green Finance and Innovative Facilitating Measures for Green Supply Chains

Discussions will focus on the new financial opportunities in forest sustainability, involving current status of global forestry investment and financing, challenges and business opportunities brought by global forest sustainability, supply chain finance innovation...
